

CoNET Philadelphia Consultants Network

IEEE Philadelphia Consultants Network (CONET)

MEMBERSHIP APPLICATION FOR 2012

You are invited to become a CONET member. The mission of CONET is to improve our technical consulting businesses by sharing and expanding our technical knowledge and our business capabilities. Our Web site is www.PhilaCONET.com.

Most CONET members are electrical, computer, or electronics (“ECE”) experts who are or who intend to be independent consultants. CONET is one of many consultants networks which are affiliated with the IEEE – in our case jointly through the IEEE Philadelphia and IEEE Lehigh Valley Sections.

Meeting topics and speakers are selected to appeal to technical professionals. CONET meetings in 2012 will be held on the first Tuesday evenings of March, May, October, and December, offering short topics with featured speakers.

Five meetings were held in 2011 with main presentations titled:

- Tricks of the Trade: Electronics Problem Solving Techniques
- Literature-Based Consulting (No Lab Required)
- Professional Engineer Licensing
- Tax Strategies for Self-Employed Consultants
- Development of Custom Analog Integrated Circuits.

Membership in CONET is open to the public. IEEE membership is encouraged but not required. Paying the Annual Fee for Service is the only membership requirement – which may be a tax-deductible business expense for consultants.

Benefits of Membership in the IEEE Philadelphia Consultants Network:

- Free listing in the Directory of Consultants at www.PhilaCONET.com
- Free admission to CONET meetings on technical and business topics
- Discounted price for meals and parking at dinner meetings
- E-mail notifications of consulting opportunities and announcements
- Referrals among Members becoming aware of each other’s capabilities.
